Atlin's Anguish

Bush Pilot Theresa Bond and the Crash of Taku Air Flight 2653

Atlin's Anguish is a brother's dedicated exploration into what really happened the day his sister, bush pilot Theresa Bond, crashed her de Havilland Beaver into Dease Lake, killing all five passengers. She was the sole survivor and the victims were her friends and neighbours from Atlin, BC, where she remained and endured the emotional aftermath of the crash.

Taking My Life

This autobiography of preeminent BC fiction writer, Jane Rule, follows the first twenty-one years of her life. In writing about her formative years, she is indeed "taking" the measure of her life. At turns deeply moving and witty, Taking My Life probes the larger philosophical questions that were to preoccupy her throughout her literary career.
